Tributes Paid Henry Wallace, Noted Liberal

DANBURY, Conn. (UPI)—The nation's leaders paid tribute today to former Vice President Henry A. Wallace, an outspoken liberal and one of the most controversial men to attain high rank in American politics.

Wallace, who unceremoniously retreated to a farm near here following his defeat as a third-party presidential candidate in 1948, died Thursday following several months of illness. He was 77.

In his political career which dawned with an appointment as Secretary of Agriculture in 1933, Wallace achieved the dubious distinction of being deposed from high office by two presidents.

Asset, Says Truman

Fourteen years of close association with Franklin D. Roosevelt ended in 1944 when FDR removed him as a candidate for reelection to the vice presidency. And a year after Roosevelt appointed him Secretary of Commerce, Harry S. Truman demanded Wallace's resignation for labelling the administration policy toward Russia as "too tough."

When informed of Wallace's death, Truman said, "I'm sorry as I can be. Henry was an asset to the country."

President Johnson said Wallace "always spoke his mind—and always from a deep sense of social justice. His views may not always have been popular, but they were sincere."

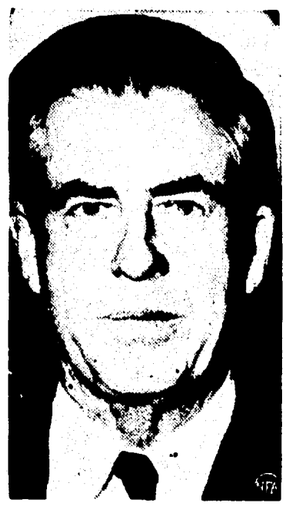
Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said, "We had our political differences and disagreements, but to me this never diminished the fact that he was a great public servant and one of the greatest friends American agriculture has had."

Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican candidate when Wallace ran for president on the Progressive ticket, said, "Henry Wallace was a man of good will who led many a brave fight for the social advances achieved during his lifetime."

Gentleman Farmer

Wallace was rushed to a hospital here from his hilltop farm in South Salem, N.Y., where he lived the contemplative life of a gentleman farmer, developing hybrid corn and experimenting with giant strawberries and gladioli.

He suffered several months from crippling lateral sclerosis. Death was attributed to a "respiratory arrest" resulting from the disease.



Henry A. Wallace

Funeral services will be held Saturday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Ridgefield, Conn.

Wallace was born in Adair County, Iowa, the son of President Harding's secretary of agriculture and the grandson of the publisher of Wallace's Farmer, a popular farm magazine.

He studied animal husbandry in college and from 1910 to 1933 was associated with the family publication, most of the time as editor. He was a Republican until 1928 when he supported Al Smith. Shortly after, Wallace met Roosevelt.

His appointment as agriculture secretary was in part a reward from helping to swing traditionally Republican Iowa into the Roosevelt column in the 1932 election. He held the post until his election as vice president in 1940.

Wallace's estrangement with FDR in 1944 was attributed largely to his views on foreign affairs and his bitter disputes with then Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, a conservative.

But when Roosevelt removed him from the subsequent vice presidential slate, he offered any cabinet position except secretary of state. Wallace chose the Commerce Department post, and remained when Truman became president following Roosevelt's death in 1945.

Gibbs Praised In Britain For Rhodesia Rule

LONDON (UPI)—Parliament today joined Queen Elizabeth II in paying unique tribute to loyalist Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs of Rhodesia, who stands alone for British rule in the breakaway African colony.

A bi-partisan resolution was placed before Parliament praising Sir Humphrey for his "courageous stand" in the face "of illegal attempts to drive him from office." All 630 members were called upon to affix their signatures to the all-party declaration.

Gibbs has refused to bow to demands by rebel Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith that he step down. Gibbs, 62, was replaced by the Smith regime with London-born lawyer Clifford Dupont but has refused to vacate Government House in Salisbury.

The Queen Thursday night awarded Gibbs her personal order of knighthood, making him a Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order. The order was instituted in 1896 by Queen Victoria and is bestowed for personal services to the queen.

Sir Humphrey already had been awarded knighthood, being made a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in 1960 when he was named governor. He also is a member of the Order of the British Empire (OBE), the same title which caused a stir when the Queen awarded it to the Beatles this year.

Job Corpsmen Demand Trial In Extortion Case

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Two Ft. Custer job corpsmen charged with extorting money from fellow trainees by threats of violence withdrew previous pleas of guilty and demanded trial in federal court Thursday.

They are Sterling Myles, 20, Washington, D.C. and John McRae, 20, Dothan, Ala. Both pleaded guilty last month. They were remanded to jail pending trial. Federal Judge Raymond W. Starr set no trial date.

Myles and McRae had been scheduled to be sentenced Thursday.

They were arrested by federal authorities Sept. 30 after an investigation at the training center.

Star Witness Jailed At Flint In Bank Holdup

FLINT (UPI)—The star witness in the coming kill-for-pay trial of a once-convicted attempted killer was arrested Thursday with his mistress, an unemployed stripper, on bank robbery charges.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents arrested Donald J. Sundberg, 38, sometime salesman who was scheduled to testify later this month against a beefy contractor who is currently serving a prison term for firing a fusiallade of shots at Garden City Mayor James Tierney during a city council meeting eight years ago.

Tierney was badly wounded but survived and now is a member of the Michigan Legislature. He wore a pistol in the legislative chambers at Lansing last May 26 when it was rumored the same man, Lester Ellerhorst, 60, was enroute there to kill him.

Sundberg is scheduled to testify against Ellerhorst again Nov. 24 when the wealthy suburban Detroit contractor goes on trial on charges of trying to hire two men to kill a Detroit lawyer.

Revenge Cited

Police said Sundberg was the go-between man who hired two Florida thugs, one a prison escapee, to kill the Lawyer, Tierney and a judge. Ellerhorst's alleged motive was revenge for financial finageling, police said.

FBI agents and police routed Sundberg and his paramour, Penney Grinkey, 20, Flint, from their apartment here today. The FBI said Sundberg was the gunman who held up a bank in nearby Otisville, Mich., Nov. 8 and escaped with $6,232. Miss Grinkey, once a stripper in a Detroit night spot, drove his getaway car, agents said.

Both were jailed, Sundberg was charged with bank robbery and Miss Grinkey with aiding him. The FBI said it recovered $650 of the bank loot.

Police sources said Sundberg's arrest would not prevent him from testifying against Ellerhorst but could make him a less effective witness.

Serving Prison Term

Ellerhorst will come here for trial from the state prison at Jackson where he is still serving time for trying to kill Tierney whom the contractor accused of gyping him in the construction of a police station in Garden City, a Detroit suburb.

Ellerhorst and his two alleged triggermen are scheduled to go on trial Nov. 24 on charges of conspiring to kill Arthur Bichan, a Detroit attorney. Police said the plot also involved attempts to kill Tierney and Garden City Municipal Judge Russell Swarthout, 42.

The alleged killing attempt was headed off when the three were arrested last May. Ellerhorst was on parole at the time and was sent back to prison as a parole violator pending his trial.

The two thugs are James Clark, 46, an escapee from the Dade County, Fla., jail and Edward Szeles, 34, an ex-convict at the same jail.

Youth Convicted For Slugging Of School Teacher

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI) — Robert L. Simpson, 18, state novice boxing champion accused of slugging an Ottawa Hills High School teacher, was found guilty by a Circuit Court jury Thursday afternoon in a trial that took almost three days.

Simpson appealed a 90-day jail term imposed in police court. He had pleaded guilty and demanded trial in circuit court.

Circuit Judge Stuart Hoffius set Nov. 26 as sentence date.

The case created considerable controversy and Simpson made an appeal to Circuit Court.

He was charged with assault on Raymond Hoag, 29, a math teacher.

Simpson was reprimanded by Hoag for running down a corridor at the school. The student refused to apologize for his language and conduct, was expelled and attacked the teacher, police said.

CHARLES HYDE III, 13-year-old kidnap victim, sits with his mother at a news conference in Tacoma, Wash., after being released by his abductors, who were paid $45,000 ransom by the boy's father. The young victim, held for nine hours by two men, was unhurt. (AP Wirephoto)

Victim Gives Description Of His 2 Captors

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)—It started like any other day. Charles H. Hyde III, a slim, mop-topped 13-year-old, left his home in the fashionable suburban Lakes District to go to school.

Then it turned into a nightmare.

"A car with two men in it pulled up beside me," Charlie Hyde related later. "One of the men got out of the car and asked me if there was a music hall close by. I say no. Then he asked me where I went to school and where I caught the bus.

"Then he grabbed me and pulled me into the car."

Nine hours later, Charlies was released unharmed. His father, Charles H. Hyde II, a wealthy wholesale grocery executive, paid the kidnapers $45,000 in small bills for the return of his son.

Cold Trail

Still later, Pierce County Sheriff Jack Berry and his deputies began following the cold trail of the businesslike abductors.

Berry admitted he had very little to go on. He said the kidnapers apparently had planned the abduction down to the last detail.

Hyde did not notify the authorities until he had paid the ransom in small bills left in a parked car. He said he was convinced it would be better to cooperate with the kidnapers until the boy was home safely.

When Charlie was released unhurt, Hyde was sure he had made the right choice.

Berry said the delay in reporting the crime made the job of tracking down the kidnapers that much more difficult. But, he said, "we can appreciate the anxiety of the father who wanted to get his boy back."

Young Hyde said his captors threatened to shoot him if he moved or made a sound. Otherwise, he said he was well treated although he was given nothing to eat.

Charlie was abducted at 7:45 a.m. Wednesday. But the kidnaping was not made public until Thursday.

Day-long Drive

"They pushed me down on the floor of the car and put tape over my eyes," Charlie said. "Then they covered me with a blanket. They just drove around most of the day."

Young Hyde said he was taken out of the car just once before he was released. That was at 10 a.m. when his captors called his father to demand money.

The senior Hyde is no stranger to kidnap plots. More than 30 years ago, two men tried to abduct Hyde, then a youth of 18. The plot failed.

Hyde is president of West Coast Grocery Co., a firm founded by his grandfather. Hyde's father was also president of the firm.

Young Hyde is a straight A student in the 8th grade at Charles Wright Academy, an exclusive private school.

Berry said he was counting upon the boy's agile brain to provide a lead in the case. Charlie gave a complete description of his two captors even though he saw them for just a few minutes before his eyes were taped shut.

He said one of the men was about 35, 5 feet, 10 inches tall, sandy haired, light complexioned and had a slight southern accent. The second man, he said, was a shorter than the first and might have been part Oriental or Mexican. He was about 35, dark complexioned and stocky.

Fake Bomb Tale Empties Airliner

DETROIT (UPI)—More than 100 persons were evacuated from a United Airlines jet plane Thursday night after a passenger told a stewardess he had a bomb in his suitcase.

The plane, United 87, a DC-8 from Philadelphia to Los Angeles with one stop at Detroit, made its scheduled stop at Detroit's Willow Run airport.

Stewardess, T. McIntyre, told authorities a passenger, identified as Albert Dowdy, 25, Toledo, Ohio, told her as the plane was making a landing approach over Windsor, Ont., he had a bomb in his suitcase.

She informed the flight crew of the sabotage threat and the plane landed, deplaning its 94 passengers and crew of seven in an isolated part of the airport in less than two minutes.

Two persons were injured during the evacuation through emergency exits. They were hospitalized in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti hospitals.

Michigan State Police held Dowdy in custody for FBI officers.

The injured were identified as:

Robert Schmitt, Glassboro, N. J., hospitalized with a possible wrist fracture.

G.T. Mash, who refused to divulge his address, hospitalized Beyer Memorial Hospital, Ypsilanti with possible internal injuries.

Both passengers suffered their injuries during the evacuation process.

A Federal statute makes it illegal to issue a bomb threat on a vehicle involved in interstate commerce. Conviction on the charge could bring a one-year sentence and $1,000 fine.

The plane landed at Willow Run on schedule (at 7:58 est). The threat was made less than one - half hour out of Willow Run, approximately over Windsor, Ont., as the plane made its descent and approach.

Student Editors Quit At MSU

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Four student editors at the Michigan State University News resigned Thursday in a dispute with an advisor and the newspaper's editor-in-chief.

The student editors, who make up fourth-fifths of the editorial board for the paper, claimed the administration advisor to the News refused to print a statement from a graduate student trying to regain admittance to the university.

The graduate student, Paul Schiff, filed charges against Michigan State claiming it refused to allow him to register because of his activities with the Committee for Student Rights (CSR), a campus group.

A Federal District Court in Grand Rapids sent the case back to the university to be decided by a faculty committee.

The editors claimed Louis Berman, general manager for the News, who has final word on all news printed in the paper, refused to print Schiff's statement after publishing the university's view written by a vice president at MSU.

The editors included managing editor Richard Schwartz, campus editor Jim Sterba, sports editor Larry Mogg and editorial director Linda Rockey.

Block Burned In Akron, Ohio

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—An elderly woman was killed and at least two persons were missing today in a fire that raced through a business and residential block in the city's east end.

Fire Department spokesmen said they feared the death toll might rise.

The fire was still burning but under control at daybreak with nearly all of the city's fire-fighting equipment in action.

The only known victim was Margaret Barb, 76, who was pulled from her burning bed by firemen. But two firemen were reported missing in the rubble.

The fire destroyed an entire block in an industrial section of the city, about a block from the main plant of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

It was believed to have started in a furniture store at the end of the block. A passing police cruiser turned in the first alarm.

Dr. King Favors Higher Wages

DETROIT (UPI) — The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Thursday night called for a minimum wage of $2 an hour to cover "all the workers of the country."

Dr. King, who outlined what he called society's three greatest problems to a large crowd attending a testimonial dinner here, said, "what this nation needs is not a glorified welfare program," but higher wages.

He said the struggle for, "this type of guaranteed income is the real war on poverty."

Dr. King said the three greatest problems "in this world are social injustice, poverty and war."

The Nobel Peace Prize winner, addressing an audience of some 3,000 persons honoring Negro Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., D-Mich., said, "it is a strange irony of history that in a nation founded on equality men argue if the color of a man's skin determines his moral quality."

Herald-Examiner Strike Settled In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A crippling two-day strike against the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner ended today when management and the American Newspaper Guild (ANG) agreed on a new two-year contract.

Managing Editor Don Goodenow walked into his office after a marathon session between negotiators for the Guild and the Hearst Corp. and said, "It's over. They're coming back in now and the pickets are gone."

Publisher George Hearst, who had been sitting in on the negotiations, told supervisory staff members working on the morning edition that management's final proposal had been accepted by the Guild.

Terms of the pact were not disclosed because it still must be ratified by guild members.

Communists Lose 1,411 In Battle

SAIGON (UPI)—An American general said today the Army's 1st Cavalry Division had killed 1,411 Communists by actual body count in the six-day battle of Chu Pong Mountain. Estimates of Communist dead were "more than 2,000" but American losses also were heavy.

Brig. Gen. Richard A. Knowles, deputy division commander and leader of the Communist-killing "Operation Silver Bayonet" for the battle six miles from the Cambodian border gave the figure of 1,411. It did not include losses by artillery and devastating B52 strategic bombers.

Intelligence sources estimated today the Cavalry, their artillery and the air strikes had killed "more than 2,000 Communists."

American losses were described officially as "moderate" but front line dispatches said they were the heaviest of the war for any single engagement.

The American cavalrymen pushed on through the Chu Pong jungles today in search of a suspected supply base for the North Vietnamese Army. U.S. Air Force B52 bombers from Guam flew two more strikes against Communist positions in the high ground.

Military briefing officers said no solid contact had been made with Communist forces in the Chu Pong area for more than 24 hours. Advancing U.S. forces met only occasional mortar and sniper fire today, and 21 snipers were reported killed and one captured.

The cavalrymen repulsed three light Communist attacks during the night, and a Red mortar barrage damaged three American helicopters in a forward division landing zone near the base of Chu Pong Mountain.

In another combat area, South Vietnamese infantrymen airlifted into battle by U.S. helicopters charged Viet Cong machinegunners and recaptured the district capital of Hiep Duc 345 miles north of Saigon.

Spacecraft Plant Strike May Delay Gemini Flight

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Gemini spacecraft workers went on strike today forcing project officials to take stopgap measures to maintain the schedule designed to launch four astronauts in time to get them home by Christmas.

But the walkout, called at midnight against the McDonnell Aircraft Corp., already set one critical test back a day and threatened to delay next month's twin Gemini launches. Gemini 7 is set for a Dec. 4 blastoff with Gemini 6 following Dec. 13.

McDonnell, maker of the two-man spacecraft, employs 215 members of the striking International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, at the Cape. Many were off work, but a final count will not be available until a late afternoon shift starts.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said the already lagging Gemini testing schedule was revised today to work around the missing McDonnell capsule technicians.

He said testing of a new fuel cell electrical system that was installed in the spacecraft Thursday was put off until Saturday because of the strike. He said some machinists were needed for the test.

Company and union leaders were in Washington today to discuss the contract dispute with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. William Simkin, director of the service, said, "National interest requires that immediate efforts be made to resolve the dispute."

Unlike most strikes at the Cape, most of the spaceport's construction workers were reporting to work as usual at the request of union leaders.

Council Retains Code Banning Minors In Bars

Escanaba's controversial ordinance banning persons under 21 from frequenting places where alcoholic beverages are dispensed will stay on the books, the City Council decided Thursday night.

The ordinance had been opposed by some of the barkeepers of the city and was upheld by ministers, parents and teachers.

The Council passed the ordinance on Aug. 5, 1965, upon the recommendation of law enforcement officers of the city and county, and after hearings at which no opposition was voiced.

The ordinance went into effect on Aug. 17.

About three weeks ago some of the tavernkeepers of Escanaba asked the Council to rescind or amend the ordinance. They said the ordinance harms their business and results in minors going outside the city to frequent taverns.

No Change

The Council after two meetings at which opinions were heard from the public and following considerable discussion, last night adopted a resolution retaining the ordinance.

Councilman Harold Vanlerberghe made the motion, supported by Councilman Glen Moreau:

"Resolved: That this Council, having confidence in the discretion and good judgment of its police department in the enforcement of the law, will retain Ordinance 459 without change."

Mayor George Rusch noted that the Council is concerned for the business interest of the community and that the purpose of the ordinance is improved law enforcement and is not intended to be discriminatory. He asked the Council to come to a decision on the future of the ordinance last night.

The ordinance follows language of the state law except to ban persons under 21 (state law says under age 18) from bars where alcoholic beverages are dispensed, unless accompanied by parent or guardian.

Back Police Force

Thus the 18, 19 and 20 year-olds may frequent taverns outside the city without being accompanied by parent or guardian.

The possibility of enlisting the cooperation of additional cities and townships in adoption of an ordinance similar to Escanaba's has ben indicated by representatives of the Delta County Ministerial Association.

Councilman H. George Nelson expressed dissatisfaction with some aspects of the city ordinance and sought to gain Council consent to certain amendments.

The Council indicated that amendments would not only weaken the ordinance but would create further misunderstanding and confusion.

"If we don't stand behind the police in their work for law enforcement, who will? Before any change I would want to talk to the officers first," said Vanlerberghe.

The City Council in other business:

Board Policies

Accepted the bid of Christensen Machine Co. to supply the city with a metal cutting band saw machine at a price of $837; accepted the bid of Superior Equipment Co., Powers,. to supply the city with a drag line bucket for $815; and accepted the $785 bid of Morley Murphy Co. to supply the city with a fire hose drier.

Discussed an evaluation report by City Manager George Harvey of the Safety Advisory Committee and adopted a motion to make it city policy to have three-year staggered terms for all members on city boards and commissions. The number of members on the Safety Advisory group may be reduced or standing committees formed.

The suggestion was also made that all appointments to all commissions and boards be made by the Council at the same time each year. Presently the terms expire at various times among the several boards and commissions.

Adopted resolutions accepting the sanitary sewer project, which has been completed on the west side of S. 23rd St.

Approved a reciprocal retirement act for city employes, purely for pension purposes, without additional cost to the city. There are now 40 Michigan cities with such a reciprocal agreement.

Accepted with regret and appreciation for his services the resignation of Attorney Robert Hansley from the Planning Commission.

Approved transfer, subject to police approval, of a Class C liquor license at 1117 Ludington St., for Frederick F. St. Jacques.

Heard a report from the city manager on the progress of an access road project in the Danforth Road-Harnischfeger plant area. The cost will be less than $5,000 and will relieve traffic congestion, and promote safety.

Clinic May Ask State Care For Retarded In U.P.

By KENNETH S. LOWE

The Upper Peninsula Child Guidance Clinic, Inc., is studying the feasibility of asking the state to establish day care centers in the Upper Peninsula for severely mentally retarded children.

At its monthly meeting in the Hotel Northland in Marquette Thursday, the clinic's executive committee instructed Donald Pascoe, Marquette, clinic director, to study the proposal and report to the committtee at its December meeting, when action will be taken on Pascoe's recommendations.

The committee acted after hearing day care centers discussed by Duane Kesark, Lansing, of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, Division of Mental Retardation.

Kesark told the committee that 15 such centers have been established in Michigan in the past 18 months, all of them in the Lower Peninsula.

The Legislature, he said, has appropriated funds for six more centers, one of which is projected for the Upper Peninsula. Funds for the Upper Peninsula center would be sufficient to accommodate up to 24 children.

Started In Delaware

The day care program for severely retarded children got its start in Delaware in 1958, Kesark said. A delegation from Michigan visited Delaware to learn more about the program and was so impressed by it that the Michigan Legislature was requested to appropriate funds for a similar program in this state.

Objectives of the program are to provide retarded children with training in self-care, social skills, physical developmental opportunities, symbol recognition (such as red and green traffic lights), sensory training, pre-vocational experience (setting tables, helping to make beds, sweeping floors, etc.).

"The program is parent-centered as well as child-centered," Kesark said. "It helps relieve mothers of their 24-hour burden of caring for retarded children. The centers help make it easier for parents to accept retarded children (by teaching the children to dress themselves, giving children toilet training, etc.)."

Home Town Care

Kesark said the program attempts to provide immediate care and training for children in their own communities instead of sending them to state institutions for this training. He pointed out that many parents are reluctant to send their children to institutions and that training in the community is more economical than placing children in institutions. (Estimated cost per child per annum in day care centers is $1,700, as opposed to $2,600 in state institutions.)

Generally, children with intelligent quotients below 30 are eligible for admission to day care centers, although the state department "is more concerned with the functional level of the child than the pure IQ score," Kesark said, adding that some children with IQ's up to 62 have ben admitted to centers.

State Pays All

Through contract arrangements, the state pays all costs of the center programs—salaries, rent, utilities, supplies and all incidental charges, including up to 50 cents per day per child for noon meals and up to $1 per day per child for transportation.

Centers have a ratio of six children for each instructor.

Of the 15 centers now in operation in Michigan, nine are administered and operated by child guidance clinic boards, four by community mental health boards and the remainder by independent boards. The centers currently are serving 265 children. By June 30, it is estimated Michigan centers will be able to accommodate 500 children.

One-half of one per cent of the total population nationally are classified as severely mentally retarded, Kesark said.

Needed Here

Delta County operates the John F. Kennedy School for Retarded Children on Escanaba's Webster School campus with only local funds.

The school building was constructed by Project Pride, Inc., in a project sponsored by the Delta County Chapter, Michigan Association For Retarded Children. The school is supported by Delta United Services.

A pioneering venture with no tax support, it has sought and hopes for government aid of the kind being studied by the U.P. Child Guidance Clinic.

Five Hunters Fined In Court

Five hunters paid fines and costs of $96.90 Wednesday after pleading guilty to various conservation charges when arraigned before Gladstone Justices of the Peace.

Russell D. Taylor, 28, of Rte. 2, Bark River, and Lawrence C. Seymour, 37, of Sheboygan, Wis., were charged with transporting a loaded gun in a motor vehicle and Gerald L. Seymour, 913 Sheridan Rd., Escanaba, was charged with possession of a loaded gun in a motor vehicle.

Each paid fines of $10 and costs of $7.30 before Justice Ross Davis.

Allen J. Kossow, Rte. 1, Gladstone, who was arrested in Bark River Township, was fined $50, of which $25 was suspended, for killing a doe deer in an area for which he did not have a permit.

Don R. Addis of Ferndale, Mich., was charged with failing to have a seal locked on a deer and paid a fine and costs of $20 before Justice A. J. Mortier. Addis was arrested after complaint by two Flint hunters that he had taken a deer which they had shot. When the deer was checked officers discovered Addis had not locked his seal. The Flint hunters got the deer, officers said.

Leo B. McGuire, Milwaukee, Dies

Leo B. McGuire, formerly of Escanaba, died at noon Monday in Milwaukee.

A graduate of Escanaba High School in 1923, he won acclaim as a member of its football team.

The survivors include a brother, Milton J. McGuire, who is assistant city treasurer of Milwaukee. Mr. McGuire was a personal friend of the late William J. McCauley, an Escanaba native who became Milwaukee County district attorney.

Funeral services for Mr. McGuire were held in Milwaukee today.

Questionaire Shows

Supervisors Differ Over Airport Millage Election

Three more Delta County Supervisors have responded to the Daily Press' airport questionnaire and two — both from the City of Escanaba — favor a "yes" vote on the issue.

County taxpayers will vote Dec. 6 on a proposal by the County Board asking two mills for one year to finance capital improvements at the airport in Escanaba.

Of six supervisors who have returned the questionnaire, 3 from rural areas oppose the tax proposal and three from Escanaba favor it.

Latest responses were by H. George Nelson and Wesley Hansen of Escanaba, in favor, and Howard Logan of Baldwin Towssship, opposed. The Daily Press asked the following questions of all 27 county supervisors in an effort to clarify for the public the issues involved:

1. Do you favor a "yes" vote? 2. Why? 3, Will you regard a "yes" vote as a directive to Delta County to take over the airport from the City of Escanaba? 4, Do you think the area's economic growth will be hindered by a "no" vote? Why?

Hansen, who said he would consider a "yes" vote by the people a directive to the County Board to take over the airport said he favors a "Yes" vote because I believe a modern airport with adequate runways and terminal facilities are essential to the improvement of industry and air traffic in Delta County.

"A 'No' vote would hurt the area's economic growth," he wrote. "Competition for industry is keen. The changes and improvements that are necessary to maintain and advance our position should be welcomed. The logical solution, therefore, is to work collectively and for each of us to put forth every effort to effect these improvements for the benefit of the entire community."

H. George Nelson also favored a "yes" vote and said he likewise would consider it a directive for county take over of the airport.

"A 'yes' vote is for the best of the economy and future of our county," he said.

"If the public does not vote 'yes' it could mean that our county will go backward instead of forward. In this day and age it is necessary to compete with others. Therefore it is very necessary to levy this two mills for one year. Otherwise, you can say 'Goodbye' for any additional industry for our county and probably either lose some we have or else their plans will not include expansion because they need fast transportation most of the time.

"Can you imagine how an industry official would feel if he has to drive 60 or 70 miles from an airport to visit his plant? He is liable to say, 'What's wrong with Delta County? We invest our money and they do not even give us an adequate airport No more expansion for us at this spot We'll find a new location.' We don't want this to happen to Delta County."

Nelson also said he believes a "no" vote would hinder the area's economic growth.

"Industry nowadays looks for a good airport with adequate facilities," he wrote. "Their officials have to come and go in a hurry. Their time is valuable! The economic life of our area is based on our industries. Talking to other industry representatives who are thinking of making a change, one of the questions they ask is, 'What are your airport facilities?' Without an adequate airport you will only get a polite answer, 'We don't think that we are interested in establishing a plant in your county.' 'Under the circumstances, we cannot consider expansion.'

Logan Urges 'No' Vote

"So if you're looking for a better Delta County in the future years be sure to get out and vote "yes."

Logan took the opposite position on all qestions.

He said he does not favor a "yes" vote and would not consider one to be a directive to the county board to take over the airport from the city.

"If the millage should pass and the County Board of Supervisors creates an Airport Authority, the Board would have to go back to the people and ask for an additional .60 of a mill for the Airport Authority to operate. As I understand it, the north-south runway may have to be moved further west. Then what would the Airport Authority have to do, go back to the taxpayers and ask for an additional millage?

"These are unanswered questions. Why has the City of Escanaba let the airport get in the condition it is in? Was it Escanaba's intent to let the airport get in this condition, as they say it is, so the Airport Study Committee would have a case to present to the Board of Supervisors?

"Was the man in the street — the pensioner, the man who works for a wage, the farmer, the woodsworker—asked when the Airport Study Committee was making its report? I do not believe so. Therefore, I urge an emphatic 'No' by the taxpayers of this county."

No Economic Barrier

Logan said he does "not feel that a 'yes' vote will be a directive to take over the airport by the county. I do not believe it will carry. If Baldwin Township, my district, votes 'no' so shall I vote regardless of outtaxpayers of this county."

He also said he does not believe economic growth will be hindered by a "no" vote.

"I just wish to bring to the attention of the voting public within the county one isstance of economic growth," Logan said. "When the Soo Line Rail Road wanted to get track linkage with the Duluth & South Shore Railroad and the Lake Superior & Ishpeming Railroad on their line north from Rapid River to Eben Junction to haul iron ore to a proposed dock at Sterling Point on the east snore of Little Bay de Noc, was the City of Escanaba in favor of it? I should say not. They fought it all the way to the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington. That, my friends, is what I call hindering economic growth, so I urge a 'No' vote on the airport millage question."

Schools Moving Toward Federal Aid Programs

School districts throughout the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District are continuing preparations to qualify for federal funds designed to improve the educational program in the individual districts.

The funds would be made available under Title I of the Elementary-Secondary Education Act and would total $168,944 to school districts in Delta County and $85,888 to school districts in Schoolcraft County.

Hagle Quarnstrom, superintendent of the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District, said that some of the individual districts are far along in their planning to qualify for the funds, and that others have plans in progress.

The funds allocated to the districts are based on the number of families in a district who had annual incomes of $2,000 or less according to the 1960 federal census.

In Delta County there were families with 716 children in the eligible category, and in Schoolcraft County the number of eligible children totaled 364. The basic allowance to the school districts is $238 times the number of eligible children.

Some school districts, for reasons known only to the census taker, show no families in the eligible category. In one district (Thompson) in Schoolcraft County the number of eligible children is listed as 45—but this year there are only 30 children enrolled in school. Enrollment decline is the cause. Last year there were 39 enrolled.

Superintendent Quarnstrom, through whose Intermediate District office the applications are being handled, said that Schoolcraft County districts have almost completed filing applications for funds.

The several individual districts are cooperating with the Manistique School District in sponsorship of a remedial reading program for which they will receive federal funds. The program will benefit children in each district who are slow readers or who have reading problems.

One of the requirements is the naming of a committee representative of the school district, plus the development of a project to strengthen the curriculum. Schoolcraft districts are expected to have their applications in the mail next week, Quarnstrom said.

In Delta County a number of the school districts are making progress in preparations toward filing project applications, said Quarnstrom. Among these are Gladstone, Flat Rock and Bark River.

Escanaba Area Public Schools is in the process of naming the representative committee, said Luther M. Barrett, superintendent. The committee, to have 14 or 15 members, is tentatively scheduled to hold its first meeting on Dec. 1.

Quarnstrom said that he is encouraging the districts to get their applications in as soon as possible. The deadline for applications for the use of the allotted funds is June 1, 1966.

Hunt Conditions Improve In U.P.

Hunting conditions were reported good today on the eve of the second weekend of the 1965 deer hunting season in the Upper Peninsula.

Mild weather was compacting snow and reducing the depths. Cloudy skies covered the U.P.

Very few hunters were in the woods today, reported John Kemppinen, regional dispatcher for the Michigan Department of Conservation at Marquette. He said that an upsurge of hunting activity is expected Saturday and Sunday.

Approximately 20,000 hunter vehicles have returned south across the Mackinac Bridge, representing about two thirds of the hunters who crossed the Straits in advance of the season. The season opens in the lower peninsula tomorrow.

Bridge Count

Up to 7 a.m. today, 4,849 deer and 40 bear have been transported out of the Upper Peninsula across the Mackinac Bridge, compared with 4,729 deer and 52 bear during the corresponding period last year.

The Conservation Department has also issued 211 permits to transport deer from the U.P. through Wisconsin. Last year 191 permits had been issued.

Conservation officers have made 247 arrests for game law violations this year, compared with 201 last year.

There were no reports of lost hunters yesterday or today, although 31 previously had been listed as missing. All of them were found in good condition.

During all of 1964 in the Upper Peninsula 14 hunters were reported lost. All were found.

BUCK TAILS — The Michigan Department of Conservation announced the 1966 deer season in the Upper Peninsula is scheduled Nov. 13-28. The season in Lower Michigan is Nov. 20 - Dec. 4 . . .

Joe Rice of Detroit hunting near Powers didn't get his buck opening day, but he did get quite a surprise when he opened his suitcase. It seems Joe and his wife packed separate bags for their vacation. You guessed it, when Joe got to camp he found his wife's clothes instead of his hunting togs . . .

One of the season's unsuccessful hunters was Rep. Raymond Clevenger (D-Sault), who failed in the Munuscong area in Chippewa County. Better be careful, Ray, there are lots of Republicans in the woods . . .

The Political Temper

The most significant political event in America since the overwhelming election of Lyndon Johnson as president was the recent election of John V. Lindsay as mayor of New York.

The Lindsay victory was a tremendous personal achievement and pushes him into the front rank of Republican presidential prospects, but it also has national implications in its revelation of voter motivation in 1965.

The Johnson Administration has been riding so strongly that it has contributed a new Washington "instant legend" of invincibility. It's legislative program went sailing through Congress, which upped the ante on some measures in an effort to outdo even the White House in government liberality, except for the effort to repeal the union shop clause of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Generally the Democrats seem to have caught the temper of the times with medicare, civil rights, liberalized immigration, federal aid to schooling, huge spending for area development efforts and more government involvement in the economy.

This flood tide of public support at the polls, translated into legislative action by a Congress which is not only overwhelmingly Democratic, but also heavily Johnson-prone, especially in its new membership, has been rendered even more dominant by the collapse of Republican strength following the Goldwater disaster.

This contest of Mr. Big Democrat and Mr. Sick Republican led to despair in the nation's conservative citizens. They began to foresee a chain of Democratic presidents and administrations reaching into the next millenium. History tells us that this is panic thinking and unreliable, but many Republicans could see no daylight in the swamp.

And then John Vliet Lindsay ran for mayor of New York. New York's urban area has 14 million people in it. It's the biggest city in the world and has a population larger than that of most of our states. And its voters are Democratic, 7 to 2.

John Lindsay defeated City Controller Abraham David Beame, a Democratic party hack, 1,166,815 to 1,030,711. He was the first Republican to beat the Democratic candidate since Fiorello LaGuardia won in 1941. Although Beame had held forth to his people the hope that in him they could elect New York's first Jewish mayor, the usually Democratic Jewish vote went heavily for Lindsay, especially in the upper income areas.

Why did New York change its old Democratic habit and elect Lindsay? In the hope of breaking a political system that has grown old and tired and cynical and which has let this greatest of cities deteriorate into a huge problem. The city is deeply in debt and has an interest bill of $1.4 million daily. Its welfare bill is nearly $500 million yearly and growing at the rate of $75 million a year.

It didn't elect Lindsay as a Republican. He was careful to dissociate himself from Governor Nelson Rockefeller (although he was a heavy contributor) and other Republican bigwigs. But the victory was a Republican victory, an opposition victory, a repudiation of Democratic leadership, although the voters rejected Lindsay's running mates and elected Beame's.

The lesson of the election is that American voters can quickly change a political situation which becomes repugnant to them and New York is becoming a place where only the very rich or the people on relief can live. Lindsay promised change. He has great new powers as mayor and he may stir New Yorkers to new pride in their great city and get them to reduce its crime, pollution and debts, to improve its housing and transportation.

New York is the bellwether for American politics so President Johnson was very interested in what happens there. The President and Senator Bobby Kennedy are in political collision in New York, but they're both Democrats and they both endorsed Beame. Vice President Hubert Humphrey campaigned for Beame. He was the choice of the leaders of the Great Society but New York said No. The Great Society idea has the city in trouble right up to its metropolitan neck.

Winner And Loser

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Slumped down in an easy chair in the offices of the Democratic National Committee, party chairman John Bailey smiled wearily at election-night returns which brought both good and bad news.

He summed up the veteran professional's standard public response when confronted with such conflicts:

"Where you win, it's a national trend. Where you lose, it's local issues."

★ ★ ★

Mayor-elect John V. Lindsay drew a lot of cynical grumbling from reporters when, midway in his last campaign week, he told a news conference he would keep the lights on at City Hall 24 hours a day if he won.

"If the City Hall telephone rings at three in the morning," asked a reporter, "will you be there, Mr. Lindsay?"

Probably not, said the candidate, but there would be someone on hand to take calls about anything the citizens had on their minds.

The answer left the newsmen skeptical. One growled aloud:

"I think I'll call up sometime around 3:30 a. m. and announce that I'm coming down right away to pay my taxes."

★ ★ ★

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary John Gardner and Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel have been close friends for a number of years. It was natural, therefore, for Gardner to rib Keppel as he swore him in recently as assistant secretary for education.

"I had understood that Mr. Keppel was to be on the cover of Time magazine this week, but apparently, I was wrong," said Gardner. Pausing a moment, he produced the magazine, adding:

"Instead they used another troublemaker."

On the cover was a portrait of Fidel Castro.

★ ★ ★

When four members of the House of Representatives' Public Works Committee left recently to spend a month in Europe inspecting rivers, dams, harbors and flood control projects, several observers were reminded of "Brogan's Law," a favorite Capital Hill aphorism. States the law:

"There is no subject of legislative concern to the United States Congress which does not require a visit to Paris."

★ ★ ★

Just before Congress adjourned, several legislators were telling this story:

"I just got out of prison this morning," said a train passenger to his seat companion. "It's sure going to be tough facing all my old friends."

"I know exactly how you feel," answered the other. "I'm just getting home from Congress."

One Big Happy Family

Ed Hollander Of Nathan Group Says:

Small Business Place In Future Looks Good

Robert R. Nathan Associates, Inc., consulting economists who provided technical assistance to the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress when it was organizing its U. P. economic aid program, has completed a study for the Small Business Administration which sees an assured place for small business in the decade ahead. The forcast is conditioned by supposition that the U. S. will maintain fairly steady economic growth.

The SBA asked the $98,000 study to guide its policies. It is the federal government agency which makes loans to small business, and small business in the nation has been concerned about its future in the face of strong trends toward bigness especially in manufacturing.

Edward D. Hollander

Hollander Heads Study

Economist Edward D. Hollander, Nathan vice president who was active in the UPCAP mission, headed by Joseph Revis, headed the study of small business for SBA.

Hollander summarizes the report in a Business Week article for the country's 4.7 million small businesses. Hollander's forecast sees these trends:

1. Opportunities to start small businesses will not multiply quite as fast as before. Services and transportation will rise faster.

2. Small businessmen will try for survival by more franchise arrangements.

3. Small business opportunities should multiply faster than the number of potential entrepreneurs.

By Manufacturing

The idea that small business is being massacred arises largely from the furor in Washington over concentration of power in manufacturing. Some 70 per cent of companies in manufacturing have fewer than 20 employes, but 70 per cent of manufacturing employment in 1958 was concentrated in only 3 per cent of the companies.

Most evidence confirms that the largest companies have grown faster than manufacturing as a whole, mainly by moving into new product lines through merger or internal expansion. But Hollander doesn't think the longer reach of the giants will crowd out small business. Some small firms will be killed off or merged, but others will take their place, or take other places where conditions are more favorable.

Manufacturing is the only sector where the number of companies has dropped in recent years, but Hollander doesn't see manufacturing as a dead end for small businessmen, with up to 250 employes. He may not be able to crack the auto or petroleum industries, but he can find a profitable satellite market in those industries or local markets in other industries where there is less advantage in large scale operations. In this way small businesses can become more numerous, even though big business grows bigger.

Retailing Trends

The real growth sector for small manufacturers, the Nathan report says, is in producing goods for local business users rather than the general public.

In retailing, the biggest business sector with more than 40 per cent of all companies, the corner grocery is fading away, but specialty stores are proliferating in suburban shopping centers. Big chains are growing, but small chains — with 11 units or fewer and under 100 employes — still employ 66 per cent of retail workers.

In the service sector, no matter how big the market grows, the units stay relatively small. Growth in population and income is reflected in opportunities for small businesses: beauty parlors, barber shops, self-service laundries, funeral parlors, service stations.

Govt. Impact

State and local government spending can open up business. Their purchases from business will rise from $25.6 billion in 1963 to $60.9 billion in 1974.

The federal impact on small business is harder to assess, says Hollander. Small business has champions in Washington like SBA with its loan programs, technical advisory services and educational plans to help small business, but SBA Administrator Eugene P. Foley isn't satisfied with his agency's efforts, especially in manufacturing.

Foley isn't a religious advocate of small business, but he's for the competitive system. He doesn't insist that the federal government favor small business, and he views antitrust action as a last resort in helping small businessmen. Last year federal agencies bought $6.6 billion worth of goods and services from small business out of a total of $38.3 billion. Foley wants more.

Letters To The Press

DISSENT

I do hope that Mr. Joseph Vogt, game biologist of the Michigan Conservation Department is not of the belief that because he is not getting letters each day, month or year, that the deer hunters are in agreement with him on the killing of anterless deer each season. We did voice our opposition to this when we signed a petition. Also the county supervisors in some counties voiced their opposition against it, but that did not make any impression on the Conservation Department. They have the power to do right or wrong as they please.

I believe that the Conservation Department and our state lawmakers are only interested in the money the state receives from the sale of licenses for deer hunting and the sales of liquor. This is very plain to me in the article in the Press Nov. 16. The 69,384 permits the Department wanted to sell this fall in the U.P. gives the impression of the greed for money they have.

If Mr. Vogt reads this letter he will know that three deer hunters do not agree with him. I believe that there are thousands more who feel as I do.

Roy F. Tumath
1321 Montana Ave
Gladstone

Editor's note: In fairness to Joseph Vogt it should be noted:

1. The Press sought out the report cited by Roy Tumath.

2. Vogt said only 2 of 75 hunters interviewed by him in the first two days of the hunt complained about deer herd management (the rules of the hunt) by the Conservation Department, which would be a significant reduction from the number a few years ago when hunters were saying that the shooting of does and fawns would destroy the deer herd. (The 1964 kill in Michigan was the second highest on record.)

3. The Conservation Department does not hold the power to control conservation, it rests basically with the Michigan Legislature, which created the Conservation Department.

4. The Conservation Department did not sell the hunt permits, it gave them away.

Questions And Answers

Q—Is Turkestan a country or a geographical region?

A—It has no definite boundaries and is a geographical region which lies in both the Soviet Union and China.

★ ★ ★

Q—Did Davy Crockett ever serve in Congress?

A—Yes, the famous Indian scout was elected from Tennessee to the House of Representatives.

The Doctor Says:

Q — What are the early symptoms of arteriosclerosis? What can be done to arrest its development?

A — Unfortunately, hardening of the arteries causes no symptoms until the vessels become almost completely choked off. This is a late manifestation of a disease that begins in 50 per cent of the population when they are in their early 20s. When the choking-off occurs, the symptoms depend on the location of the blocked arteries. In a coronary artery you would have attacks of a vise-like pain in the region of the heart (angina pectoris); in the brain, a stroke; and in the legs, pain on walking (intermittent claudication).

Sometimes your doctor can detect arteriosclerosis before any of these vascular accidents occur by feeling the arteries in your feet, seeing their outline in an X-ray film (usually one taken for another reason), or seeing characteristic changes in the interior of your eyes.

Prevention is now thought to depend less on cutting out high-cholesterol fats than on reducing your total caloric intake and keeping your weight at the lower limit of normal, cutting out cigarettes and, with your doctor's help, keeping your blood pressure especially the lower (diastolic) reading, within normal limits and learning the fine art of equanimity.

Q — Two of my cousins had their spleens removed. How do they manage to get along without this organ? What are the chances of living more than five years after such an operation?

A — The chief function of the spleen is the destruction of worn-out red blood cells but in man the spleen is not essential for this purpose. In the absence of the spleen, its function is taken over by the lining of the blood vessels.

The outlook for a person whose spleen has been removed is generally very good. It depends on what condition the operation was performed for. In most cases the operation prolongs, rather than shortens, life.

Ann Landers

Clowns Bother Ice Cream Boy

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 16-year-old boy who works after school and on weekends. Please print this letter and make life a lot easier for all of us who are in this line of work.

A customer comes in and says, "I want an ice cream cone." Then I have to ask him, "What kind of ice cream do you want?" The customer says, "What kind do you have?" I have to rattle off the whole list. Our shop has the biggest selection in town — 28 flavors. After I go throught the list, the customer looks at me and says, "Haven't you got kumquat or loganberry?" When I say "No", he gets a real sad expression on his face and says, "I'll take vanilla."

I get so mad I want to jump over the counter and hit him in the mouth. Can you think of a snappy answer for these clowns? — TOMMY.

Dear Tommy: Customers don't come in for snappy answers. They come in for ice cream.

A shop that features 28 flavors should have a sign listing them. In the meantime, remember that the customer may not always be right, but he is always the customer.

Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago our three-year-son came down with hives all over his body. We called the doctor and he had us bring the boy in for tests.

After the tests were completed the doctor said the boy's hive's are caused by an emotional problem. He recommended that we take him to a specialist who deals with disturbed children.

My wife didn't say anything till we got home. Then she really blew her stack. She said, "That doctor is crazy. What can a three-year-old child be disturbed about? He doesn't know about the bomb or Red China. When doctors can't find out what's wrong they always blame an emotional problem."

Now that I think about it, what she said makes sense. We'd like your opinion. A AND C

Dear A and C: Very few people get hives because of Red China. What really disturbs people are close-to-home problems — like a domineering husband, a cold mother, a brutal father, a sneaky brother or a ruthless boss. And there's no age limit. It can happen to anybody, anytime. I hope your wife will take the doctor's advice.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is one of the sweetest people who ever lived — after 11 a.m. But when he gets up in the morning, he is grouchy and sullen.

We've been married five years and it's been like this from the beginning. I make a special effort to see that his breakfast is exactly the way he wants it. The paper is folded according to his instructions, at the left of his plate. Sometimes he can't find his glasses, so I always have an extra pair on the table.

I force myself to be cheerful and pleasant even when I feel rotten. Nothing helps. Maybe if I understood why he's like this I could accept it. For obvious reasons I can't ask my friends if their husbands behave this way. I'd hate for them to know I have the problem. Thanks for your help. — A. M. BLUES

Dear A. M.: Some people don't have the physical machinery to generate energy until noon, so don't be so critical.

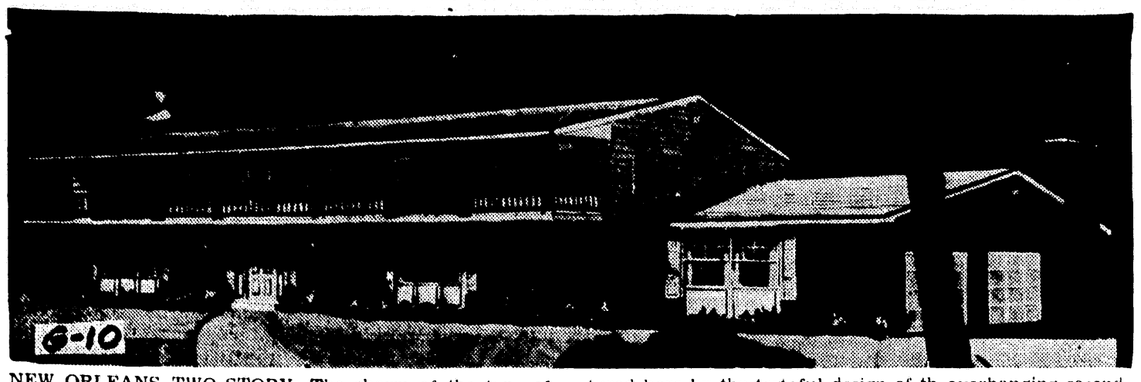
Two Staircases Featured



NEW ORLEANS TWO-STORY: The charm of the type of house seen so often in the New Orleans area has been captured here by the tasteful design of th overhanging second-floor balcony.

By ANDY LANG

In the day of our gracious past, many two-story homes featured separate entrances and stairs for the servants. This enabled families to entertain and otherwise enjoy their daily lives while all of the necessary chores and tasks of cooking, cleaning, etc., were carried out with no interference.

As the years have passed, and our society has become largely servantless and child-centered, these entrances have changed function, while the second stairs have virtually disappeared, often to the dismay of many a big family. There are probably many times when the adults of such a family, with teen-age children, wish they had two separate houses, not just separate baths.

Our newest House of the Week may come as close to that goal as practical in a traditionally-styled home. It's a two-story designed by architect Samuel Paul expressly for a family of three or more children, with a distinct separation of the private, adult areas and the everyday family areas. It's a house for two generations, but under one attractive roof.

Although a fairly sizable home, the styling is not pretentious; rather, it is a subdued and tasteful adaption of the New Orleans two-story with its overhanging second-floor balcony and ornamental iron railings.

The planning of the home far exceeds the conventional zoning concepts prevalent in many two-story designs. The ground floor is a "split-down-the-middle" between the formal and informal zones. The children could be having a party in the family room without ever disturbing the bridge club meeting in the dining room.

The formal (or adult) entertaining section is composed of a large living room and a separate dining room, plus a striking reception foyer that is two stories high. The foyer is the only opulence to be found in this home; it is highlighted by a circular staircase sweeping up to the second floor and backed up with wood paneling and artificial planters. A powder room and two large closets adjoin the foyer via an anteroom. This setup is much too formal for everyday use by the children. Thus, located on the other side of the house, is another full entrance ensemble, complete with its own foyer and closets. This entrance gives access to the everyday rooms; in other words, the kitchen, the bay dinette and the family room with its cathedral ceiling. A lavatory can be located here also, if desired, or the space used for a walk-in pantry if the lavishness of 3½ baths is felt to be excessive.

A second staircase in this area gives access to the second floor and the basement. It provides a means of going from the daily activity areas to the children's bedrooms without moving over into the formal part of the house. Upstairs, this arrangement eases movement, since the master suite can be reached directly via the circular stair from the main foyer.

The master suite features a large room with its own fireplace, sliding doors to the front balcony, a spacious dressing room and a full bath. On the other side are the children's three bedrooms with a full bath and a dual-basin vanity.

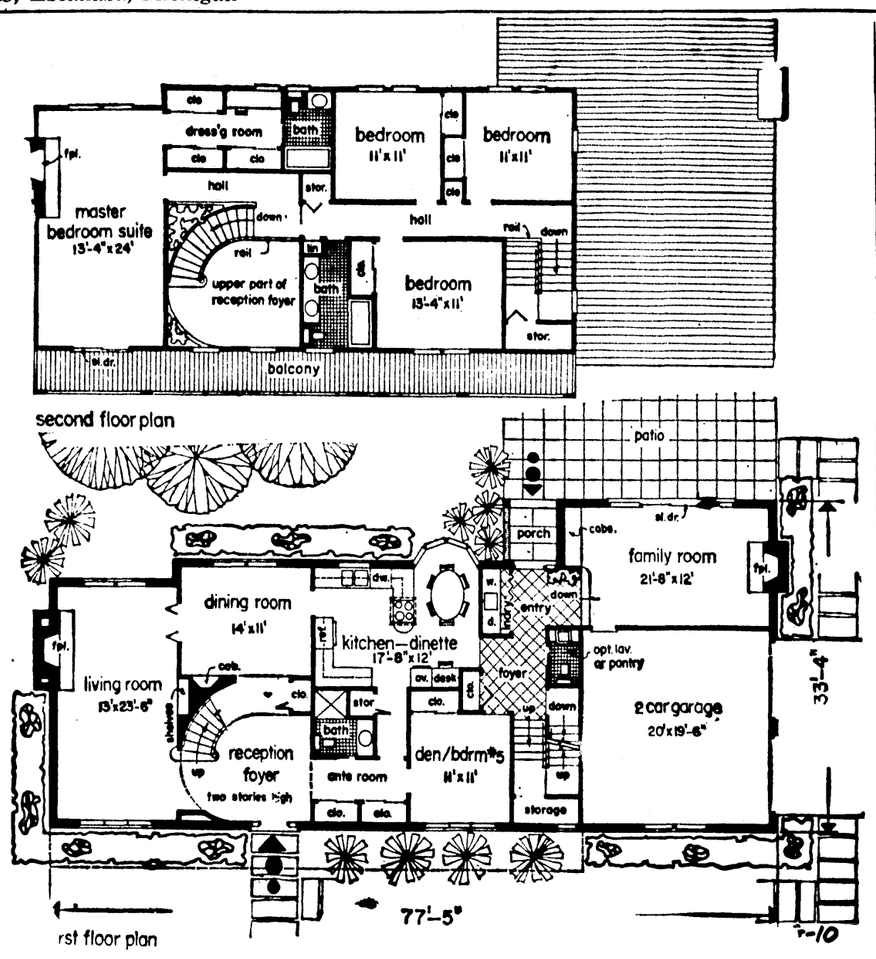
Back on the main floor are several features that should not go unnoticed. Note the spare room which bridges the formal and informal foyers. It can be used as a sewing room, TV room or extra bedroom with the rear foyer serving as its main entrance. Or it can serve as a den or library, with the main foyer then serving as its principal entry. In either event, it has access to a bath or lavatory.

Other features include fireplaces in both the living room and family room, and space for built-in shelves in the living room, a china cabinet in the dining room and Hi-Fi cabinets in the family room. In the kitchen are a wall oven, dishwasher, peninsula range and hood, and a planning desk.

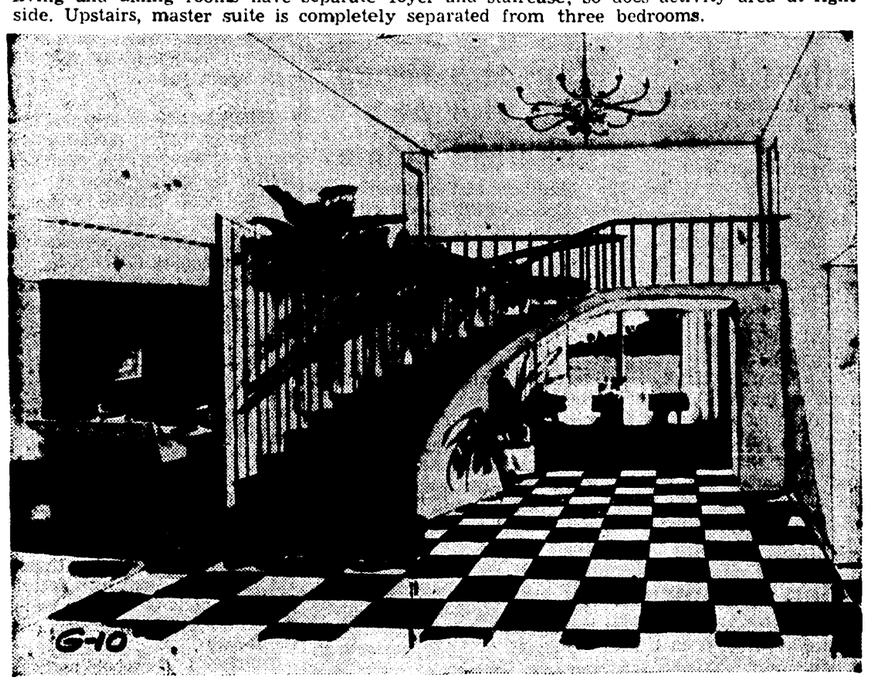
This is a truly interesting and workable design for a family of five or more persons.

G-10 STATISTICS

Design G-10, a two-story traditional, has a living room dining room, kitchen, dinette, family room, spare room, full bath, optional lavatory, main reception foyer, secondary foyer, laundry and two-car garage on the first floor, with a habitable area of 1768 square feet. On the second floor are a master bedroom suite, three children's bedrooms, two full baths, a dressing room and a balcony, with a livable area of 1330 square feet. Over-all dimensions, including the garage, are 77' 5" by 33' 4".



FLOOR PLANS: Split zoning is highlight of traffic pattern on both floors. On lower level, living and dining rooms have separate foyer and staircase; so does activity area at right side. Upstairs, master suite is completely separated from three bedrooms.



ONE OF TWO: This curved staircase in the main reception foyer is one of two ways to reach the second floor; another stairway is at the other side of the house.

Airports Faced By Jet Problem

LANSING (UPI) — The Michigan Aeronautics Commission has suggested that airlines who want to provide jet service to smaller cities in the state develop jets to meet existing airport facilities.

James D. Ramsey, director of the Aeronautics Department, said some planes being redesigned for jet use will not be able to use existing airports because runways are too short.

"Air travel by jet is certainly something that we want to come to our out - state communities. However, it is time for the aircraft manufacturers and airlines to start building and buying jet aircraft to meet existing airport facilities and traffic requirements," Ramsey said.

Unable To Land

One airline recently purchased new jets for their short runs. However, the jets would be unable to land at some Michigan airfields serving wide population areas.

Traverse City, which has heavy plane traffic during the tourist season from Chicago and Detroit, would have to extend its 5,550 feet long runway nearly 15 per cent to use the new jet in other than ideal weather, according to one airport specialist.

Sault Ste. Marie and Pellston, both of which have runways just over 5,000 feet long, also would have to extend their facilities.

Highways Are Example

Aeronautics officials claim it is difficult to ask communities to continue raising money every few years to expand their airports because the airlines improve the jets.

"It is time to follow the example of our highway system, where vehicles must be designed to use the roads in existence. For instance, trucks are limited in width, weight and height. There are no such limitations on aircraft," Ramsey said.

The jet in question is the stretched - out version of the Douglas DC-9 purchased by North Central Airlines.

Lake Central Airlines currently is using a turboprop aircraft capable of using existing facilities at Willow Run, Jackson and Kalamazoo.

Delta County Issue

Delta County Board of Supervisors has ordered an election Dec. 6 on a proposal to levy a 2 mill levy for 1 year to provide a new terminal building at Escanaba Airport and extend its long runway 1,500 feet to 6,500 to accomodate jet planes. A "Yes" vote would be a directive to the county supervisors said, to take over the city-owned airport.

The Escanaba Airport already is in considerable usage by jet planes owned by industries, but its 5,000-foot runway is marginal for such ships. North Central Airlines, which serves the airport with scheduled airline service has announced it will have jets on U. P. runs by 1968.

Adventure Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robert Manry who sailed a 13½-foot sloop on a 78-day voyage from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England was awarded the Adventurers Club gold medal Wednesday night for the "Outstanding Adventure in 1965."

The 47-year-old copy editor on the Cleveland Plain Dealer embarked on his solo voyage in June and sailed the "Tinkerbelle" into Falmouth, England, in August.

Coeds Send Cards To Fighting Men

GRAND RAPIDS (UPI)—Aquinas College coeds have sent 300 Christmas cards to American soldiers in Viet Nam.

The move was started by Juday Konrek, one of the students. Most of the cards will go to GI friends and relatives. Others will go to soldiers in Viet Nam whom the students have never met.

Jail Cell Built In City Hall

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Springfield's new $6,800 jail cell in the city hall was open for business Wednesday and awaiting its first customer.

The cell was constructed to eliminate an expensive "shuttle system" for prisoners to and from the Calhoun County Jail in Marshall, a 40-mile round trip, which tied up a Springfield police cruiser and personnel and also cost Springfield for various services provided by the county in processing prisoners.

Watch For Worms

LUBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Coeds who want to dramatize Texas Tech's ambitions for the Cotton Bowl by wearing corsages of cotton to the Tech-Arkansas game Saturday will have to get them fumigated.

An agriculture official, D. H. Russell, said there is a federal pink bollworm quarantine on that requires cotton taken from Texas into Arkansas to be treated.

Aid Is Asked For Basic Skills Work By School

The first application of the Manistique school district, for $22,208 under the elementary-secondary act has been submitted to the Department of Education with Cooks, Doyle, Fairview and Garden as cooperating districts. The application is to provide improvement in basic skills with emphasis on reading for those in grades one through six who fall below level on achievement tests.

Snow Removal Money Comes

A motor vehicle fund payment for snow removal has been received by County Treasurer William Cowman for the Road Commission. The amount is $9,802.16, as compared with $7,570.67 last year.

The payment is from a total of $671,522.81 going to 53 counties who in 1964 had 70 or more measured inches of snow. The figure is $35,000 higher than the preceding year, when distribution was to 3 counties.

The average snowfall for the state last year was 29 inches higher than the preceding year.

Some legislators in years past have proposed that the law under which the distribution is made should be modified, as southern counties may not need to remove a 3-inch fall, while the northern part of Lower Michigan and Upper Michigan would, due to climate differences, but the law has not been changed.

Publicity Not Good For CMU

MOUNT PLEASANT (UPI) — The local Chamber of Commerce urged Gov. George Romney Thursday to "counteract any adverse publicity" from a legislative investigation of Central Michigan University here.

The chamber said the investigation "cast a dark cloud over the entire community" and could hurt the university, resulting in "a serious economic blow to the community." The university is Mount Pleasant's biggest employer.

A legislative committee has held hearings on charges by five CMU faculty members that they were denied pay raises because they criticized the school's administration.

During the hearings a lawmaker asked whether several college officials were guilty of conflict of interest for serving on the boards of two local banks with which the university deposits money.

The Chamber telegrammed Romney and members of the legislative committee urging them to "do all in your power to counteract any adverse publicity and misunderstandings that may have reached the general public concerning Central Michigan University, the university's Board of Trustees, Administration and staff."

HURRICANE DEATHS

Hurricanes have taken more than 5,500 lives in the United States in the past 50 years. The worst year was 1928, when 1,836 persons died in hurricanes.

The winter months are the worst for fire losses. Although other factors are involved, this is mainly the result of heating hazards.

A burglary occurs every 46 seconds in the United States. Many of these could be avoided if homeowners would lock their windows and doors and take a few other simple precautions.

Hunters Use Phone More

Deer hunters in the Upper Peninsula are making record numbers of long distance calls, the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. reports.

Thomas J. Straebel, manager here for Michigan Bell, said the volume of long distance calling is running more than 60 per cent over last year's deer season.

For example, Straebel said on the first Monday (Nov. 16) of the deer season last year, Escanaba operators handled 2,718 long distance calls. Last Monday, (Nov. 15) 4,560 calls were put through, an increase of 68 per cent.

Straebel said the peak hour for calling by hunters is usually between 8 and 9 p. m. on Monday, Nov. 8, Escanaba operators placed 127 long distance calls, nearly normal for that time of the day. During the same hour on Monday, Nov. 15, 512 long distance calls went through, an increase of 300 per cent.

Straebel said record volumes of long distance calls also are being handled at Iron Mountain and Marquette. From the three long distance centers, 22,227 long distance calls were placed Monday, compared to 15,338 last year.

As a result of the record numbers of long distance calls, some delays are being encountered by phone users, Straebel said. Improved business conditions are also being reflected in the number of long distance calls, Straebel said. He said that in general the volume of long distance calls is up approximately 20 per cent over last year's figures at Escanaba.

PTA Council's Leader Appeals For Participation

Escanaba Area Council PTA President Mrs. Leo Niquette of Escanaba appealed today to all area parents and teachers to support and join their neighborhood school PTA.

"In the local unit PTA parents, teachers, school administration personnel and other citizens have an opportunity to become co-workers and friends by working together on all issues that pertain to the welfare of children and youth," she said.

"We must have active, concerned members in local PTAs if we are to accomplish the objectives of the organization."

Michigan PTA leaders have listed 11 critical issues which will receive major attention in the state this year including: financing public education, eduaction for a changing society, helping disadvantaged children, waging peace, and coping with the responsibility of parenthood.

The Escanaba Area PTA Council is sponsoring a study of the needs for a Code of Responsibility for parents and youth.

Co-ops Planning Wood Marketing Service In U.P.

Co-operatives of the northern Great Lakes States are moving to incorporate the Lake States Forest Products Cooperative.

The project to bring cooperative organization to the marketing of forest products, and possibly the manufacture of wood products as well, was advanced at a meeting of cooperatives Nov. 10 in Minneapolis, where a subcommittee was named to meet Dec. 3 in Milwaukee to proceed with incorporation of the new cooperative under Wisconsin law.

The project, launched last year with support of cooperative leaders and government agencies like the U. S. Forest Service in the Lake States, aims to greatly expand the cooperative influence in wood industry, which is now an enterprise system of small jobbers supplying wood to corporations owning and operating pulp and paper mills, sawmills, rustic cedar product plants, box shops, veneer mills and other manufacturies.

Northland Involved

Sulo Peltola, manager of the Northland Cooperative Federation at Rock, which is one of the 15 cooperative organizations and other agencies represented at the Minneapolis meeting, said the first area of interest of the new Lake States Forest Products Cooperative would be marketing of wood products.

The Northland Cooperative Federation is not now engaged in the wood business, but would be under the program being developed. The Rock Cooperative is a dealer in pulpwood and there are other local cooperatives in the Upper Peninsula active in this business. In the Lower Peninsula there are two cooperatives engaged in wood industry. The 20-year-old AuSable Forest Products Cooperative deals in pulpwood, and another Lower Michigan co-op operates a sawmill.

Complex Proposed

Earlier planning and the Minneapolis meeting suggested possibility of the creation by the new Lake States Co-op of a wood industry "complex" as a pilot plant to explore the possibilities of upgrading local income from wood production through manufacture. The "complex" discussed by the cooperative leaders might include a sawmill, debarker, chipper, dry kilns for lumber, saw equipment for dimension stock, a wood treatment plant and a veneer plant.

Estimates of cost of such a complex, according to the Cooperative Builder of Superior, which reported on the Minneapolis meeting, ranged from $225,000 to $1 million. Wood industry spokesmen said inclusion of all the elements suggested for the complex would make $1 million unrealistically small.

Sponsors Listed

Sulo Peltola said the intention of the planner was to start small, with marketing services, and that the by-laws of the co-op would permit entry into manufacturing and expansion into the states. The Northland Cooperative Federation of Rock is headed by John Niemi of Rock and Urho Pokela of Traunik is secretary.

Peltola estimated that perhaps 15 U. P. cooperatives would eventually be interested in helping to finance the new Lake States Forest Products Co-op. He said he was not informed on what federal aid might be available to help finance the co-op.

Organization, besides the Northland Cooperative Federation, interested in the project include the U. S. Forest Service, Cooperative League, Bureau of Indian Affairs, Great Northern Railway, University of Minnesota Extension Service, cooperative associations of the three states, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the St. Paul Bank for Cooperatives, Midland Cooperatives, Inc., the Rural Electrification Administration, the Ran ge Co-op Federation, Virginia, Minn., and the Farmers Home Administration of St. Paul.

Organizers Named

Named to the incorporation committee were: Eli Ranta, manager, Range Cooperative Federation; chairman; Jerry Voorhis, executive director, Cooperative League of U. S. A., Chicago; Ed Slettum, executive secretary, Minnesota Assn. of Cooperatives, St. Paul; L. A. Cheney, executive secretary, Michigan Assn. of Farmer Cooperatives, Lansing; and Glenn Anderson, executive secretary, Wisconsin Assn. of Cooperatives, Madison.

By-laws detail purposes:

1. Produce orderly and effective marketing of timber and timber products . . . by utilizing all wood for its best and highest return, compatible with the availability of markets.

2. Develop, finance and operate a pilot cooperative woodworking complex.

3. Select additional complex sites and lands and organize such complexes where their operations appear feasible.

UPCAP Given $12,468 By EDA

The Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress has received federal funds to determine its role in Public Works and Economic Development Act (EDA) programs in the U. P. The $12,468 grant extends UPCAP'S ARA contract through December and provides $4,168 for planning economic development districts and growth centers.

The EDO, which replaces and enlarges upon the expiring Area Redevelopment and Accelerated Public Works programs, provides for grants and loans for public works and for development of economically depressed areas.

The economic development district and growth center approaches break from traditional development concepts. Instead of using city and county boundaries, the development district approach makes divisions according to particular economic problems. The growth center concept, rather than concentrating development efforts in areas of obvious need, establishes a nucleus within a fairly prosperous area and extends this to encompass depressed areas.

UPCAP was one of the models used in the structuring of the bill's provisions.

Harold Dettman of St. Ignace, chairman of UPCAP and Dr. E. V. Bowden, executive director, testified at hearing of the bill in Washington in April and in the early summer Bowden was retained as special consultant to work on details of the bill. Both of the UPCAP leaders attended the signing of the bill.

UPCAP first received an ARA grant in 1962 to enable it to retain Robert Nathan Associates, a Washington, D. C., economic consulting firm, to help in setting up a model economic development plan for the U. P. In 1964, a new ARA grant enabled UPCAP to hire a permanent professional staff to intensify the implementation of its regional economic development plans. UPCAP'S operation was expanded this year to encompass Economic Opportunity Act programs in addition to its regional development projects.

Wisconsin Deer Season To Open

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—An estimated 400,000 deer hunters will be after a herd of 600,000 animals when Wisconsin's annual firing gets under way Saturday, Conservation Department officials reported today.

Last season a comparable turnout bagged 93,445 deer, of which 67,000 were bucks.

The herd is large this year and if weather conditions are conducive to good hunting, the 1964 bag may be exceeded, officials predicted.

The general season runs for nine days but traditionally the biggest turnout of hunters takes place in the first few days.

Most of the state's 29,000 square miles of range will be open for buck hunting.

Exceptions allow deer without antlers to be taken on opening weekend in 10 Mississippi River counties and in 15 southern counties. The southern area closes after the first three days but the river counties join the buck hunt for the rest of the season.

An either sex season on the Apostle Islands, except Madeline, will continue through Nov. 28. The mainland season prevails on Madeline Island.

The usual registration requirements will be in force and the department will have 383 deer and bear registration stations ready to record hunters' successes.

The department claims that the variable quota will provide one of the best deer seasons in the nation. More than 50,000 party permits are expected to be issued under the quota system.

There are 38 quota areas allowing parties of four or more to take an extra deer of either sex. Deer killed under the quota arrangements must be registered within the quota area.

The department contends the quota plan is highly popular with hunters because it controls overpopulation and at the same time puts a lid on the number of does that can be taken from a single area.

VanDamme Is Elected Director Of Potato Assn.

The Upper Peninsula Potato Growers Association recently elected two new members to their board of directors and selected a new secretary-treasurer. Doug Turini of Marquette and Valere VanDamme of Rock were elected as three-year board members, and Turini was selected as secretary-treasurer.

The Association members and Michigan State University educational consultants met at Hardwood recently, in conjunction with the U.P. Potato Show. Paul VanDamme of Marquette and Arne Pentilla of Crystal Falls were re-elected to three-year terms on the board.

Others serving on the board are Ero Saarikko of Rock, Dick Trepanier of Iron Mountain, Frank Falkeis of Cornell, Reuben Rheault and A. M. Hiltunen of Lake Linden, H. E. Butler of Crystal Falls, Harold Nelson of Iron Mountain and Harold Bahrman of Skandia.

At a board meeting later this winter, the U.P. Association will elect officers, determine the location and programs for the 1966 Potato Show and the Potato Field Day.

HERMANSVILLE — Rev. Fr. Gervase Brewer, Pastor of St. Mary's Church, Hermansville, has arranged with the Sisters of St. Ursula of the Stephenson convent for the religious instruction of the children of the parish. Approximately 175 children grades 1 through 8 meet for classes in the parish hall each Friday from 11:15 a.m. to 1 p.m. for instructions by three of the teaching sisters.

The first project will be the installation of new altar to conform with the new liturgical requirements whereby the priest will face the congregation when offering the Mass. It is hoped this will be completed by Thanksgiving.

The annual Thanksgiving Clothing Drive is now on. Donors are asked to bring used clothing to the Parish Hall at any time before Saturday, Nov. 27th, after which it will be packed and shipped.

Firemen Again To Repair Toys

Escanaba city firemen today are making an appeal to Escanabans and other in the area for used toys to brighten Christmas for children who might otherwise be forgotten by Santa.

The firemen will repair the toys and put them in Santa's pack. The annual goodfellow chore of the JC's and firemen has been received with generous response from the community in other years and caused a lot of happiness on Christmas morning.

Escanaba Fire Chief Nels Bergeon said that the firemen will welcome receiving toys, wagons, tricycles, skates, trucks, dolls and other items suitable for Christmas gifts for the unfortunate children. The toys may be brought to the south side fire station at City Hall, or call the Salvation Army Headquarters, ST 6-0590 for toy pick up.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual used toy collection campaign in cooperation with the firemen's repair project Nov. 29 to Dec. 3. JC's are asking school students in Escanaba to bring toys that can be repaired and refinished to their school. The JC's will pick up all the toys from the schools Dec. 3.

The Christmas toy project is sponsored by the firemen, JC's and the Salvation Army. The Salvation Army will distribute the toys and baskets to the unfortunate families before Christmas Eve.

Captain Orville Butts of the Salvation Army is to organize a sewing club to clean and make new dresses for the dolls. If other sewing clubs are interested they may call the Salvation Army at 112 N. 15th St.

Chief Bergeon asked an early response to the toy appeal this year, since it takes time for the firemen to repair and refinish many of the items brought in.

"Let's all help make this a more joyous Christmas for the boys and girls," said Bergeon "You can help by checking through your basement, attic and garage for good repairable toys."

Barn Destroyed By Night Blaze

BARK RIVER -- Fire of undetermined origin Thursday night destroyed a barn and 5,200 bales of hay owned by John Kiefasz on the old Ebrath Peterson farm on County Line Road, 2½ miles south of US 2-41.

The Bark River Volunteer fire department was called at 7:10 p. m. and Chief Herman Palmgren reported 19 firemen responded.

Most of the machinery was removed from the barn but the structure and the hay could not be saved.

Chester McGuire, who lives at the farm, detected the fire and notified authorities.

Notre Dame Remains One-Point Favorite

By United Press International

Last season Southern California taught Notre Dame how to handle the nation's No. 1 college football team, and Saturday the Fighting Irish would like to impart this knowledge to Michigan State.

The fourth-ranked Irish clash with the top-ranked Spartans in a game that could decide the national champion. Last season at this time Notre Dame was the No. 1 team in the nation and needed only a final game victory over Southern Cal to remain unbeaten.

But the Irish lost and Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian believes Michigan State is deserving of the same fate.

The Spartans have rambled over nine consecutive opponents enroute to their first Big Ten title and a berth in the Rose Bowl. Notre Dame has whipped seven foes but dropped a 25-21 squeaker to Purdue.

Michigan Underdog

Despite their No. 1 ranking, the Spartans are 1-point underdogs to Notre Dame, partly because the game is being played on the Irish gridiron. Football fever has stricken South Bend, Ind., where signs of "emaculate state" have appeared on campus. Parseghian has said his charges will "love Michigan State to death."

Notre Dame's power-running backfield of Nick Eddy, Bill Wolski and Larry Conjar will meet a stiff test in the mighty forward wall of Michigan State, which has allowed only 60 yards rushing per game. Both teams have high-geared offenses, with the Irish scoring about 35 points a game and the Spartans about 27.

Michigan State's Rose Bowl opponent will be decided by the winner of the Southern Cal-UCLA clash. The fifth-ranked Trojans and the seventh-ranked Bruins both are 6-1-1, with Southern Cal losing to Notre Dame and UCLA losing to Michigan State.

The home-team Trojans are 5-point favorites on the strength of Mike Garrett, the nation's leading runner. UCLA will counter with quarterback Gary Beban, a scrambler who can hurt you with his running and passing.

The Southwest Conference Cotton Bowl representative hinges on the outcome of the Arkansas-Texas Tech clash. The second-ranked Razorbacks (9-0) must contend with hard-running Donny Anderson and conference passing leader Tom Wilson. The Red Raiders (No. 9), who have lost only to Texas, would get the bowl bid in event of a conference tie. Arkansas is a 14-point favorite to win its 22nd consecutive game.

BOB APISA, Michigan State fullback, has injured knee examined by trainer Gayle Robinson at East Lansing, Although on crutches Monday after being injured in the Indiana game Saturday, Apisa is determined to play against Notre Dame this weekend. (AP Wirephoto)

Ivy League

The Ivy League race has gone down to the wire with a pair of unbeatens, Princeton and Dartmouth, fighting for the title. The Indians might have trouble with Princeton's single wing offense. With fullback Ron Landeck leading the attack, the Tigers have been made a 6-point choice.

Quarterback Gary Lane spearheads the eighth-ranked Missouri Tigers who are 16-point favorites to whip arch-rival Kansas, and Michigan is rated 3-points better than Ohio State in an important big ten encounter.

In other games by sections:

EAST—Syracuse 14 over Boston College; Harvard 2 over Yale; West Virginia 11 over George Washington and Penn State 7 over Pittsburgh.

SOUTH—Duke 4 over North Carolina; Kentucky and Tennessee even; Florida State 6 over Houston and Florida 6 over Miami.

MIDWEST—Purdue 10 over Indiana; Illinois 6 over Northwestern; Iowa 2 over North Carolina State; Oklahoma State 24 over Kansas State; Minnesota 14 over Wisconsin and Miami of Ohio 7 over Cincinnati.

SOUTHWEST—Texas Christian 12 over Rice; Southern Methodist and Baylor even and Brigham Young 2 over Arizona.

WEST—Stanford 4 over California; Oregon State 2 over Oregon; Washington 6 over Washington State and Utah State 4 over Utah.

Sunday Win 'Must' For Packers, Vikes

By United Press International

Minnesota Coach Norm Van Brocklin, who quit earlier this week because his team couldn't win the "big game," is facing just that in his very first game following his one day retirement.

This Sunday's Green Bay-Minnesota encounter is a must game for both Western Division clubs with the Packers struggling to stay within one game of the conference leading Baltimore Colts. The Vikings are barely managing to stay in contention and are locked in a three way tie for third with Chicago and Detroit at 5-4.

Van Brocklin's impetuous action was triggered by last week's critical, 41-21, loss to Baltimore and the Dutchman knows that Green Bay won't be any easier to handle. Still, the experts give the host team the edge and have installed the Vikings two point favorites to hand the Packers their third setback in 10 games.

In other National Football League action, Baltimore is a 14½ point pick over Philadelphia. Cleveland is a five-point choice over Dallas, St. Louis is rated nine points better than New York, Chicago is considered six and a half points superior to Detroit, San Francisco is a seven and a half point choice over Los Angeles and Washington is a slim one-point choice over Pittsburgh.

Team Buildup

Van Brocklin has built the Vikings, only five years old, into a strong contender faster than anyone imagined possible. Last season, they tied the powerful Packers for second place in the league's toughest division and this year were given a good chance to take it all.

It was the disappointment of early season failure that prompted the former passing star to take his hasty and regrettable action.

The team wants to rally behind its capable, if not always lovable, coach but meets the NFL leader in pass defense and total defense. Minnesota has had its problems keeping the opposition away from the goal line and has permitted more points than any other team, 272.

Gary Cuozzo filled in superbly for Johnny Unitas last week with a five touchdown passing performance that led the Colts to victory. The old master may be ready this week and if he is he'll get the starting call to help Baltimore extend its win streak to eight games. The Colts biggest problem will be stopping the explosive long ball combination of Norm Snead and Pete Retzlaff.

Hard running Jimmy Brown and studious Frank Ray have been the main cogs in the surge that has left the Browns two games up in the East. Jimmy topped the 1,000 yard mark in rushing for the seventh time in nine years last week but will be bucking one of the league's most stubborn defensive lines at Dallas. The Cowboys are deadlocked with the Giants for third place in the East with a 4-5 record.

The Giants travel to St. Louis to meet an injury-riddled Cardinal squad. Charles Johnson's sore shoulder is likely to keep him sidelined. Three weeks ago New York rallied from a 10-0 deficit to upset the Cards, 14-10.

The Bears boast the league's top-rated passer in Rudy Bukich and the most exciting rookie in speedy halfback Gale Sayers. Bukich threw three scoring strikes when Chicago beat Detroit earlier this year, 38-10.

San Francisco figures to repeat over west coast rival L.A. John Brodie is having a standout year and rookie Ken Willard has given the 49'ers a long needed running threat. In addition, Dave Parks is the league's leading receiver. The Rams will be trying to bounce back from last week's heartbreaking 6-3 loss to Green Bay in which they held the Packers without a touchdown.

Sonny Jurgensen's pass protection was almost nonexistent last week against Philadelphia and he can expect more blitzing from the Steelers. Pittsburgh has lost a number of close games this year and this is one the Steelers think they can win.

Canadian Pro Paces Caracas

CARACAS (UPI)—Bill Wakeham of Canada, a pro for less than a year and one-half, carried a one-stroke lead today into the second round of the Caracas Open Golf Tournament.

"It was the biggest thrill of my life," said the 25-year-old Wakeham after his four-under-par 34-32—66 Thursday over the Vale Arriba Course.

In second place, hot on the heels of Wakeham, was Alvie Thompson, also of Canada, a former Canadian PGA champion who toured the course in 34-33—67.

"I hated to do this to Alvie," said Wakeham, a winner of the Canadian Junior title. "But it was just one of those days when my putter stayed hot and I needed only 29 to get through."

"Al Besselink gave me a putting lesson and his advice for shorter, firm strokes changed my whole game," said Wakeham, who had five birdies on his round.

Ramon Sota of Spain was third with a 68. Wes Ellis Jr. of West Caldwell, N.J., was in with 69.

Braves Average Short 5-Feet-9

GLADSTONE — In this day of skyscrapper basketball players, Coach Bill Wood's Gladstone Braves are a rarity.

When the Braves take the floor for their season opener tonight in a home stand against Negaunee, they will average a scant 5 feet 9 inches. Tallest of the Braves will be Russ Sargent at 5-10 and the shortest will be Lynn LaPlant at 5-4.

Rounding out the starting crew will be Mark Goodman with LaPlant at guards, Keith Apelgren at center, Dick Anderson with Sargent at the forward spots.

Hockey Player Hurt In Fight

MUSKEGON (UPI) — One player was seriously injured Thursday night as fighting erupted between players and fans at an International Hockey League game between the Muskegon Mohawks and the Des Moines Oak Leafs.

Muskegon won the game 9-2. The fight erupted in the third period and the officials were forced to end the game with 44 seconds left on the clock.

Pat Ginnell of Des Moines was in serious condition at a hospital here. He apparently was hit several times on the head and body by fans during the melee. He suffered a concussion and internal bleeding.

Authorities at the hospital said Ginnell would be hospitalized for at least one week.

There had been fighting between players through much of the penalty-ridden game but no fans were involved until the melee began.

Westrum Named Jets' Manager

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wes Westrum has been in baseball for 17 years and he's still at the bottom of the ladder.

Thursday the board of directors of the New York Mets handed the 42-year-old former New York Giant catcher a one-year contract to manage the last place Mets. He succeeds Casey Stengel, one of baseball's most colorful showmen, as manager and will receive an estimated $35,000.

Westrum was Stengel's personal choice as interim manager when Casey fractured his hip last July 25 and subsequently announced his retirement on Aug. 30.

The Mets Board of Directors announced that Westrum was their unanimous choice although George Weiss, Mets president said that several other men, including Met coach and former Yankee player and manager, Yogi Berra, had been considered for the job.

"Only Man"

"But Wes was the only man we offered the job to," Weiss said.

"I got so excited when they told me. I didn't know what to do," Westrum revealed by telephone from his Phoenix, Ariz. home. "This is the happiest day in my baseball career."

Westrum's career spans 19 years as a player and coach with the then New York Giants and as a coach with the Mets. He caught for the Giants for 11 years, figuring prominently in their 1951 and 1954 championships and had a lifetime batting average of .217 with 96 home runs.

In 1958 he became a coach with Giants and remained with them until after the 1963 season when he was involved in an unusual trade of coaches.

In 1964 he was the first base coach for the Mets but Stengel moved him into the dugout in 1965. When the Mets released Warren Spahn, Westrum became pitching coach and 11 days later he was chosen interim manager by Stengel from a hospital bed.

"Wes is the fella," Casey said when Weiss asked him whom he wanted to run the team. "He's along side me every day in the dugout, helps me decide the line-ups and knows what my thinking is."

Westrum said that he and Weiss will meet shortly to decide on the new coaching staff. Only Berra remains from last year's staff. Third base coach Don Heffner recently signed to manage the Cincinnati Reds and pitching coach Warren Spahn was given his release in mid-season.

Iron Rangers Trim Bobcats

MARQUETTE (UPI) — The Marquette Iron Rangers got goals from six different players Thursday night to defeat the Green Bay Bobcats 6-1 in an United States Hockey League game here.

The win was the second in a row for the Iron Rangers in the young USHL season and put them in first place in the league. Both wins have been over Green Bay. The Bobcats are 1-2 for the season.

Marquette goalie Brian Luney kicked out 29 Green Bay shots while the Iron Rangers forced Bobcat goalie Jim Mattson to make 33 saves.

Clay Is Different Away From Crowds

By MILTON RICHMAN

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Catch Cassius Clay away from the crowd when there's no microphone in front of him, no spotlight and no reason for him to perpetuate his public image, and he'll stop you dead in your tracks, not merely by what he says but also by how he says it.

Stripped bare of all the braggadocio and flamboyance at such times as these, Clay comes across as an entirely different person. Why, he's almost a real flesh-and-blood human being.

This was one of those times and he looked like any other carefree, 23-year-old kid as he reached into the refrigerator for a container of milk and chug-a-lugged the entire contents in six or seven healthy swallows.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers, then sat down at a table in his room, leafed through a few letters and talked about what possibly lies ahead of him after Monday night's title meeting with Floyd Patterson.

Retirement Plans

Somehow the subject got around to retirement and he admitted the idea has crossed his mind more than once.

"Especially when I'm out there doing road work by myself," he said so softly that you could barely hear him. "A man has a lot of time to think when he's running all alone. Many times I say to myself, 'shoot, this is the same thing over and over again and what does it get me?

"I'll probably retire in two years," he said.

Clay's statement didn't sound as if it was one of those spur-of-the-moment things.

"I've given it some thought," he said. "This isn't something I'm making up just to hear myself talk. Just think, in two more years I'll only be 25. I'd like to go out with a good name plenty of money and no mark on me. I think I can do it. What I want most of all is to be the first Negro heavyweight champion ever to retire undefeated. Wouldn't that be something?"

And then what would he do?

"Lots of things," he replied. "I'd like to get married, settle down and lead a quiet life off somewhere. Who knows what I'd do after I quit fighting? I'd do whatever Elijah Mohammed (the Muslim leader) asked me to. I might become a minister. Maybe a gym instructor. I enjoy working with kids. There are a lot of things I could do. I'd only be 25."

The cornerstone for Clay's plans are represented by his financial investments. He confesses he hasn't made a mint with the heavyweight title yet but he already has begun investing his money.

"The investments are coming along all right," he said. "If they do well, I'll do well and I won't have anything to worry about in my later years."

Sounded Older

Now, for the first time, he sounded much older than his actual years and it took a few moments before the boyishness returned.

Suddenly, it was there again in an instant.

Without so much as a interrupting the conversation, the champion idly dialed a number in Chicago, casually inquired how the "fight talk" was going there, said good-bye after a couple of minutes and then returned to Monday night's date with Patterson.

"I'm not angry with him," he said, matter-of-factly. "I'm just gonna give him a little spanking."

A lull followed and Cassius broke it by inquiring whether his listener had heard his latest poem. The answer was yes.

The champ shrugged his shoulders as if to say there wasn't much more he could offer. He got up from the table, walked out onto the terrace of his motel apartment and began studying the sunset.

He looked confident. He also looked lonesome.

Michigan State Has Only Half Needed Tickets

EAST LANSING (UPI)—Michigan State University officials, declaring they have about half the tickets desired, plan to begin taking orders for the Rose Bowl trip from students and faculty Monday.

Officials said MSU plans to offer four separate package deals, ranging from $275 to $185, for an eight-day trip to California. The cost includes meals enroute, hotel accomodations, tickets to both the Rose Bowl Parade and the Jan. 1 football game plus a New Year's Eve dinner-dance.

Michigan State will play as yet to be selected West Coast team in the Rose Bowl classic. Leading West Coast candidates are Southern California, UCLA and Washington State.

John A. Fuzak, vice president of student affairs and head of the MSU Rose Bowl Committee, said Thursday the Big Ten has been alloted 16,747 tickets for the game. He said about 14,500 of these will be left after tickets are ladled out to other Big Ten schools and the official MSU team party.

Could Use 30,000

"We could probably use 30,000 at least," Fuzak said. "We are trying in every way we know how to get more tickets but the outlook is not optimistic."

He said about 8,000 student and faculty are expected to request tickets plus about 1,200 alumni, leaving only about 5,300 left over to satisfy all other demands.

The range in price on the student - faculty package deal depends on the mode of transportation selected. Those traveling by jet will pay $275; those on prop planes $245, rail travel will cost $230, and bus, $185.

Fuzak said preliminary plans call for selling the package deal to faculty and senior and junior students Monday, then opening sales to sophomores and freshmen Tuesday and Wednesday. After that alumni needs will be satisfied, he said.

Alumni Package Deal

Alumni will be offered a $310 package deal that includes jet transportation to California for a stay of five days and six nights, plus a trip to Disneyland, a Big Ten dinner, continental breakfast on the day of the game, tickets to the game and parade and an alumni reception at the Biltmore Hotel on New Year's Eve.

Students will be honored in numerous already designated hotels in the Los Angeles area. Alumni will stay either at the Biltmore or the Statler Hotel Los Angeles.

Fuzak said students who take the package tour will be refunded $3.00 on the $6.50 paid for a game ticket when they pick up the ticket shortly before game time. This is a precaution against resale of the ticket, he said.

Students will leave Lansing Dec. 26, 27 and 28, and return Jan. 1, 2, 3 and 4. Those leaving earliest will return first.

Spartan Frosh Lose In Clash With Reserves

EAST LANSING (UPI) — A pair of tiny sophomore scatbacks, Ken Heft and Jim Hoye, led the Michigan State varsity reserve football team to a 28-6 victory over the freshman squad Thursday night.

Heft led all ground gainers with 117 yards in 13 carries, including one touchdown, and Hoye sprinted 59 yards for another score in the highlight of a game played before about 1,100 fans at East Lansing High School Stadium. Proceeds from the annual contest go to the Ralph H. Young Athletic Scholarship fund.

Charles Wedemeyer, the little quarterback from Kailua, Hawaii, who sparkled Monday in a freshman intra-squad game, suffered a neck injury on the last play of the first half and missed the rest of the game. He completed four of eight passes for 25 yards in the opening half.

Freshman quarterback Bill Feraco, Irwin, Pa., who replaced the injured Wedemeyer, compiled the best passing record by hitting on 10 of 14 for 111 yards, and fullback Regis Cavender, a freshman from Detroit Cathedral High, gained 41 yards in six carries.

The frosh squad moved the ball well against their bigger and more experienced opponents but five fumbles and numerous long-yardage losses on pass attempts frustrated the drives. Injuries to key players also hampered the team.

Heft, a 160-pounder from Birmingham, scored the initial TD on a one yard plunge in the first quarter after he had raced 32 yards to set up the play. Heft also reeled off a 38 yard run to set up a four yard scoring plunge by halfback John Grogan in the second period.

The six foot, 185 pound Feraco, put the freshmen on the scoreboard in the third period when he hit end Allen Brenner, Niles, with a 22-yard scoring pass.

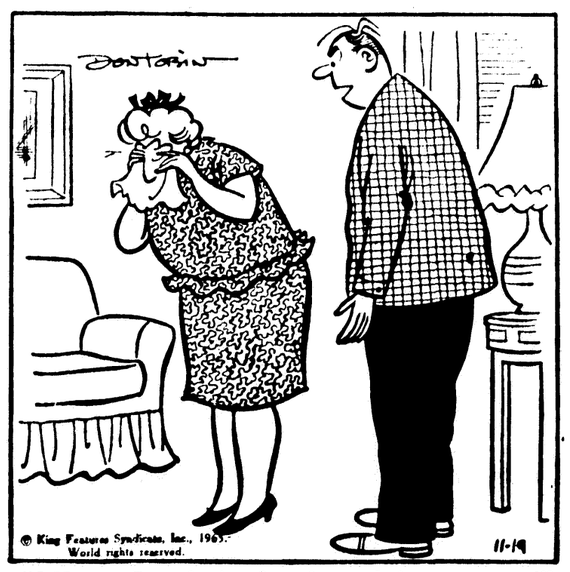
Hoye, a 153 pound speedball from Philadelphia, made his long touchdown run on an off-tackle trap play in the third period. He gained a total of 60 yards in 5 carries.

Chilled fans howled in the fourth quarter when the varsity-reserve team, composed of players who do not make road trips, unveiled an improvised backfield that substituted beefy linemen for tiny scatbacks.

The alignment consisted of 240-pound Tom Skidmore, normally a tackle, at fullback; Jeff Richardson, 230-pound center, and Steve Troychak, 220-pound tackle, at the halfback slots; and Anthony Rutherford, 207 pound linebacker at quarterback.

This quartet, averaging 225 per man, rolled for two first downs before freshman quarterback Bob Super, who played with the varsity squad, entered the game and passed 27 yards to end Pete Dotlich for a touchdown on the final play of the game.

THE LITTLE WOMAN



"O.K. . . . I apologize for always being so smart!"

Sports In Brief

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Floyd Peters, Philadelphia Eagles' tackle, was recuperating today at Graduate Hospital where he underwent surgery to mend a torn knee ligament.

Peters will wear a cast for at least a month and will miss the Eagles' remaining five games.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Veteran fullback Rick Casares of the Washington Redskins, out since the opening game with fractured ribs, was reactivated Thursday and will be available for service against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Clark Hinkle, former all-pro fullback for the Green Bay Packers, will be inducted into the Pennsylvania Hall of Fame at the organization's third annual awards dinner Dec. 11.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Awards will be made to the outstanding offensive and defensive players at the annual East-West All-Star Game at Kezar Stadium Dec. 31.

Eddie Shack's No Clown Now

By United Press International

It wasn't that they used to laugh at the clown exactly; they just didn't consider him a serious candidate for the National Hockey League.

That was last year. Eddie Shack's different this season.

Montreal Canadien Coach Toe Blake said last year that Shack was a "clown who didn't belong in the league." This season the Toronto Maple Leafs sent him to the minors without even giving him a chance to make the parent club.

Six days ago they recalled him, and he's scored three goals, including one Thursday that brought the Leafs back from behind in a 3-1 conquest of Montreal.

2. In Memoriam

Anderson

In sad but loving memory of our beloved wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Jack Anderson, who passed away one year ago today, Nov. 19, 1964.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember her who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

Sadly missed by
Jack Anderson and Family

Gladstone Vicar Cleared In Fatal Traffic Accident

Father George A. Porthan, vicar of Trinity Episcopal Church in Gladstone, was cleared of all responsibility for an accident Wednesday in which a 36-year-old Crystal Falls woman was killed when hit by Fr. Porthan's car.

Fr. Porthan, who was enroute to Ironwood to visit another priest, continued with his trip.

Mrs. Ralph Walsted of Crystal Falls was killed when she dashed in front of Fr. Porthan's car on U. S. 2.

Rev. Porthan, who returned to Gladstone Thursday, said today she apparently didn't see his car. He said no charges had been made by investigating officers.

Witnesses stated that Mrs. Walsted had stopped her car on the shoulder of the road and flagged them down to inquire whether the men, two hunters, felt her car was driveable, since the muffler had broken loose and was dragging.

The two men stated to Sandri that they advised her to drive the car home. Mrs. Walsted then waited as an approaching truck passed before crossing the highway to her car. Apparently unaware of the Porthan vehicle behind the truck, she stepped directly into its path.

Briefly Told

Carol J. and Louis F. Terrian were granted a divorce Thursday by Judge Bernard H. Davidson in Delta County Circuit Court.

Applications for marriage licenses were made Thursday at the County Clerk's office by Lawrence Joseph Riener, Rte. 2, Bark River, and Florence Marie Martin, Rte. 1, Escanaba, and by James Gerald Kell, 112 S. 13th St., and Karen Dianne Maki, Chicago, Ill.

Escanaba police have issued traffic court summonses to Roger Novak, Portage Point, failing to stop in the assured clear distance; Otella Brantmeier, Bark River Rte. 1, disobeying a stop sign; Elizabeth M. LaMarche, 920 2nd Ave. N., speeding; Martin E. Van DenBoom, 1307 1st Ave. S., improper lane usage; Lorin H. Blowers, 1309 N. 22nd St., defective tail light; and Patrick G. Smith, Escanaba Rte. 1, defective equipment.

Mrs. Roy A. Jensen of 2310 Lake Shore Drive complained to police of a neck injury after a traffic accident at 10th and Lake Shore Drive at 3:43 p. m. Thursday. The driver of the other car, Theresa Marie Koster of 1700 Lake Shore Drive, was given a traffic court summons for failing to exercise due care.

AUGUST WORST MONTH

In recent years, more motor vehicle deaths have occurred in August than in any other month. In 1964, 4,810 persons died in car accidents during August, almost 4 per cent more than in October, which had the next highest toll.

Blaney Park To Close; Sale Is Sought By Earle

Stewart E. Earle, owner of big Blaney Park Resort, one of the greatest ventures in recreation industry in Upper Peninsula history, today announced that he is closing the resort.

Earle said he hoped by next week to have a definite commitment on sale of the 21,700-acre resort property from one of several prospective purchasers.

Earle will keep Simmons Woods, an 11,000 acre tract of woodland along the Lake Michigan shore adjoining the Blaney Park property.

Earle said that he had been hopeful that the State of Michigan would buy Blaney Park as a nucleus for a state youth rehabilitation center, but that this project had apparently failed on the point of legislators opposition.

"There are too many factors against a resort like Blaney Park today," said Earle. "The minimum wage law and medicare and the camping trend and the demands of people for more facilities and services make it necessary to dispose of Blaney. We regret the necessity after so many years of effort to develop the resort."

Earle has been assisted by his sons, William of Newberry, and Jack of Blaney, in the management of the big resort.

The town of Blaney was owned by the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Co., which had woods industry operations there. In the division of the firm's assets in 1948 between G. Harold Earle and Stewart Earle, brothers, both of Hermansville, the Blaney Park property went to Stewart and he has operated it since.

Since 1948, Earle cited, his real and personal property taxes at Blaney in Schoolcraft County have quadrupled. Wages have also advanced sharply and the resort's books show it is operating at a loss.

Funeral Services Set For Airman

MANISTIQUE—The body of T Sgt. Robert L. Burnis, 37, who was killed Nov. 11 in an airplane crash at Salt Lake City, is being returned to Manistique for funeral services which are scheduled at 10 a. m. Monday in St. Francis de Sales church. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Friends may call at Messier-Broullire funeral home after 4 p. m. Sunday. Liturgical prayers will be recited at the funeral home at 8:30 p. m. Sunday and Knights of Columbus members will assemble at that time.

Father Coleman Scholarship Is School Project

Francis D'Amour, president of the Holy Name High School Board of Education, announces a Father Thomas Coleman Music Camp Scholarship project "to perpetuate the memory of Father Coleman's interest and participation in many fields of music.

"It will", said D'Amour "encourage study of music at Holy Name High School, and offer an annual music camp scholarship to a Holy Name student. Interlochen Music Camp and Northern Michigan University Music Camp are the two possibilities under consideration at this time.

"The scholarship will be derived from donations received from any person or organization. Donations should be made to the Father Coleman Music Scholarship, Holy Name High School, and Rev. Lawrence Gauthier, superintendent, will keep all such funds in a special account."
